This paper is interesting to read because it is studied from the sociology of religion. The practice of usury among the people of Indonesia is still developing because it is simple to manage even though the interest in money is high. However, there is also a need for references regarding this research related to social and social status in society for those who give usury and those who receive usury. This paper needs to be strengthened by data on the amount of funds circulating through this system in Indonesia.
