

Review of: "Presenting a Wind Turbine Model for Climate Change Education and Action"

F.R.S. Tampubolon<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Bogor Agricultural University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The data provided is still incomplete. The author should display data in the form of carbon capture values before the wind turbine and carbon capture values after the wind turbine. I also don't find a strong reason why to use only wind turbines to control climate change. Climate change can be controlled in several other ways simultaneously so that the impact of controlling climate change can be carried out.