The research topic 'Potential Benefits of Information Technology Trends in Nigerian Tertiary Institutions' is interesting because it discusses the benefits tertiary institutions in Nigeria will gain by integrating AI into their educational systems, whereby both the teaching and learning processes will be greatly improved. However, the literature review should be expanded (further explained) to capture the real situation in Nigerian tertiary institutions regarding financing, the basic skills acquired by both the teachers and students, Nigerian policy on the usage of these trends in Nigerian institutions, etc. That's to say, it should be more specific than general.
