

Review of: "Implementation of the Adult Oncology Unit at Muhimbili National Hospital (MNH)"

Joselyn Rwebembera<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Uganda Heart Institute

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I commend the authors for the initiative to publish this immense work and for documenting the development that is going on in Tanzania. It is not unusual for teams to make great strides, but the work never gets published. I like the sub-section titles - they are well thought out and composed. The article clearly portrays the steps taken, the progress made, the strategies used to overcome various challenges, and the still-remaining roadblocks. I have one overall comment - I feel there is quite a bit of redundancy and repetition in the write-up. This is the general writing style. Take an example of the conclusion - it is way too long. And right from the abstract throughout the body of the manuscript, one feels that similar messages get repeated in various paragraphs. A shorter but more compact manuscript would be of greater interest to the audience. Otherwise, I do accept this manuscript. Thank you!