

Review of: "[Empirical Paper] Product Development of Digital Platform for Mental Health During Pregnancy Period: ‘Get Well Mom’"

Fitriana Mawardi¹

¹ Universitas Gadjah Mada

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is interesting related emergency planning and disaster mitigation for mental health. However the structure of this paper not fit for research study that should have method and result section. If the paper is submitted as editorial or report should not be structured as introduction, discussion, and conclusion.

In the discussion section, the researcher discuss about Covid-19 however in introduction section there is no part related Covid-19. The introduction and discussion not support each other. The researcher they suggest develop emergency plans of psychological preparedness, however the explanation related mental health emergency planning and disaster mitigation is not comprehensive and clear. Overall, the study is less informative and need of improvement for more details.