This is a very thorough review/definition of what magical thinking means, from different perspectives. As an author who discusses magical thinking in his research, I truly appreciated this article/essay. The only thing I suggest changing/modifying is the link that was being established between magical thinking and Covid. It seemed a little bit disconnected. I suggest giving more examples of actual people's practices during Covid and how they relate to magical thinking. Thank you for this article/essay. A good read
