

Review of: "A Comprehensive Examination of the Practice of Outsourcing within the Framework of International Business in the Contemporary Era of the 21st Century"

Matteo Kalchschmidt¹

¹ University of Bergamo

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper seems far to be a comprehensive research paper on the topic. The literature on outsourcing is enormous and here it is not covered at all. If the goal is to provide "a comprehensive examination of the practice of outsourcing" the paper requires probably a literature review and a very tough summary of 50 years of research.

I think that the idea of having such a perspective is interesting but I would suggest to do it not as a literature review, but rather as an evaluation of the root factors that led and developed the practice of outsourcing, so to discuss the extent to which the current times suggest further development of such a practice