Blood Island

National Cancer Institute

Source

Structures composed of primitive erythroid cells formed in the yolk sac during embryogenesis, and which appear during the third week of gestation. These cell clusters form the primitive hematopoietic system.