I have gone through the article submitted by Brett Martin and authors

According to me the work is good and acceptable but need few modifications.

Title could be written in more intelligent English manner

Abstract should be written in scientific language with strong knowledge

There is no abbreviation given for the bacterial strains under study

Keywords should be given in alphabetic order

Introduction should be more elaborate and with quality material .

References should be latest

No reference is cited ranging 2020-2023

What is the source of strain or bacteria under study

Order of the material should be rearranged to give a compact look
