This article talks about the parameters in an electric vehicle; however, it does not reflect the innovation that is mentioned. It is important that they review grammar because reading is not fluent. I consider that it has interesting aspects, but it does not highlight them; therefore, it is not conclusive. Also, it is necessary to clarify the results and add real evidence. I suggest checking and correcting spelling and grammar, and also improving the quality of the explanation or description of the development. Finally, describe in very detail the goals achieved. After these significant changes, this article could be accepted.
