Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

- 1.Enhance the revision of existing literature in the field, as the Social Impact sections lack references. Incorporate additional citations to reinforce and demonstrate that your research is grounded in robust and genuine studies. Integrate references specifically addressing Hybrid Pico Hydro-Solar Generation Systems into the literature.
- 2.Organize the paper into the following sections: Abstract, Introduction, Literature Review, Methodology, Findings and Scientific Contribution, Research Validation, Conclusion, Research Limits, and Future Research Directions, Findings, and References or Bibliography.
- 3.Include figures or a flowchart in the "Development of the Pico Hydro Generation System" section to succinctly summarize the explanations, aiding readers in comprehending the current work.
- 4.Similarly, for the "Development of the Solar Generation System" section, incorporate visual aids such as figures or a flowchart to streamline the understanding of the presented information.
- 5.Present the results in the Results and Implications sections through graphical representation.
- 6.Integrate mathematical models and equations to elucidate the methodology behind the obtained results.
- 7.Include a section for comparing results with existing literature, highlighting key differences and similarities.
- 8.Introduce a dedicated section for drawing conclusions based on the findings.
- 9.Augment the list of references by incorporating recent publications from 2023 or 2024 to stay current with the latest research.
