

Review of: "Professional Learning Communities (PLCs) for English Teachers as an Effective Alternative Framework for Professional Development"

Yuan Gao<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> University of the Chinese Academy of Sciences (UCAS)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I enjoyed reading this paper. It is good to know that English teachers in Israel could have PLC as a supportive and safe community that would constantly empower them in their usually burdened English teaching life. The paper is significant in the way that it addresses practical difficulties for language teachers, by providing an operational and effective way to promote English teachers' professional development. The only place I am sure about this paper is the section "Discussion" which to me, seems to belong to "Results." And there should be an additional "Discussion" section.