

Review of: "Economics of Cattle Fattening - A Case of Bangladesh"

Gustavo Daniel Gimenez<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> National Agricultural Technology Institute

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper is an interesting work. It represents a useful contribution to understanding the income generation mechanisms for smallholders and farmers in different districts of Bangladesh. Also to establish a knowledge base about the state of livestock and some productive and economic indicators. I consider it important to propose public policies to support the livestock sector. My comments, corrections and suggestions have been made with the purpose of polishing details about the manuscript. Thanks to the authors for enriching my knowledge and to QEIOS for allowing me to review this paper.