Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall, the manuscript has accomplished the basic One Health principles. The author needs to add not only traditional but maybe current practices in Indonesia, for example, biological control (use of Wolbachia-infected mosquitoes), environmentally friendly/species-specific chemicals, and probably others. The author needs to work on the redundancy in sentences. The author also needs to add a description of epidemiology and how One Health uses epidemiological data to generate other programs such as predicting disease outbreaks, vector control, and so on. The role of policymakers also needs to be addressed in this manuscript.
