

Review of: "Analysing the conglomeration of various urban pockets through the lens of environmental design for crime prevention: A case of Kolkata"

Nisa Semiz¹

¹ Abdullah Gul University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article, prepared for the prevention of crime through environmental design, is original with its content and has the potential to contribute to the current problems. Evaluations made on Kolkata, a settlement that stands out with its historical character, and three different regions within it, reveal interesting results. However, the information given in the article is not enough to understand the traditional and contemporary architectural features of the three settlements selected. For example, it can be very useful to show the physical location of the Dalans within the traditional structure and environment with visuals or drawings. Furthermore, literature review can be made more thoroughly. In addition, in the conclusion section, depending on the evaluation of the analysis results, suggestions can be discussed in a more comprehensive manner other than the Dalan example.