

Review of: "Determinants of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Sustainable Development in Africa"

Johannes Hamonangan Siregar

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare

This article offers insightful information about the elements influencing MSMEs' sustainable growth in Africa. The practical implications of the findings, implied that government support for MSMEs is very important in Africa. This article is based on impressive empirical evidence and makes an original contribution. It can be published.