Anticipatory Vomiting

National Cancer Institute

Source

A situation in which an individual vomits prior to a medical treatment, commonly chemotherapy, as part of a conditioned/learned response after having previously experienced nausea and/or vomiting as a direct result of that same (or a similar) treatment.