

Review of: "Acacia pycnantha gum exudates recognised as a traditional food in two countries may have economic potential"

Wilson Hino Kato Junior

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In summary, the article provides valuable information about Acacia pycnantha gum, but there is room to expand on certain points and provide more context to strengthen the discussion on the economic potential of the substance.

General Suggestions:

- Include additional information about the geographical and climatic conditions that may influence gum production.
- Consider expanding the discussion on the challenges faced by Acacia pycnantha gum in comparison to gum Arabic, exploring possible strategies to overcome these challenges.
- Highlight specific benefits or unique characteristics of Acacia pycnantha gum that could make it competitive in specific markets.
- Propose specific areas for future research that could contribute to the economic development of the gum.