The topic is interesting and will be proved a good contribution in the existing literature. However, I am recommending the following comments that may be included in the manuscript before publication.

1. Literature Table Summary:

Inclusion of a literature table summary would significantly enhance the accessibility of your article, especially for readers who may be less familiar with the specific field. A table summarizing key studies, their methodologies, and main findings could serve as a valuable reference point for readers seeking a quick overview. This addition would not only aid comprehension but also contribute to the overall clarity and user-friendliness of the manuscript.

2. Addressing Gaps in Literature:

While the article delves into important aspects of the topic, it would benefit from a more comprehensive consideration of relevant studies, particularly those exploring the influence of globalization on economic crises. Including these studies would strengthen the article's theoretical foundation and provide a more nuanced perspective on the broader context in which your research is situated. This addition would not only enrich the discussion but also demonstrate a thorough engagement with the existing literature, bolstering the article's credibility and relevance.

It might be helpful to briefly highlight specific studies that could be incorporated to address these gaps. Additionally, consider emphasizing the potential impact of these additional studies on the overall narrative and findings of your research.

Incorporating these recommendations into the manuscript will likely improve its overall quality and make it more valuable to a diverse readership. If you have any specific concerns or questions related to these suggestions, feel free to elaborate, and I can provide further assistance.
