Review of: "Enhancing Academic Speaking Skills: An Immersive Virtual World Approach"

Grisana Punpeng[1]

1 Chulalongkorn University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The abstract is clearly and concisely written. A sufficient number of sources have been consulted and cited. In terms of research methodology, the procedure, data collection methods and techniques, objective, and scope of the study are described in detail. The presentation of the results would be enhanced by subheadings that emphasise the sub-categories that emerged. Some of the VW's drawbacks, such as its technical issues, should also be highlighted and addressed in the discussions, as this would enable further research to focus on resolving the problems. This research paper has a strong research design, a logical and valid argument, and clear and concise explanations of the methodology and findings. This study is a significant and novel contribution to the fields of language learning and technology.