The paper presents an interesting topic, with a great contribution to science. Suggestions for improvement were written throughout the text in the form of balloons. There are several problems with the way of citing the results of other researchers, as the authors cite the numbers in the middle of the text and the writing is not fluent. Table 2 is missing the description for products made with ripe mango. Locations that require adjustments are shaded in yellow. After the changes are made, it will be ready to be published.
