

Review of: "The Use of Generative AI in an Interdisciplinary Approach for Cultural Preservation"

Aatif Jamshed¹

¹ ABES Engineering College

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Even while the idea is a good one generally, numerous technological details still require work. More focus should be placed on each component's implementation specifics in particular.

It would be helpful to specify which generative models would be modified based on certain circumstances, for example. Additionally, resolving any issues that can come up throughout the adaption process will significantly improve the framework's viability and usability for practical applications.