1. Interesting topic to study!
2. Would be useful to have a literature review, identifying the gap in current knowledge. This will help clarify the purpose of the study, and have 12 research objectives rather than 5.
3. Using subheadings in the abstract would be good.
4. State the key references in text
5. Be clear about how each key term / construct is defined, and then perhaps choose to focus on the relationship between 2 constructs/variables in this journal article, rather than 4-5.
6. State & describe the data analysis methods used. How have you categorised your data?
7. You have done well with a wide range of participants and data sources. Your methodology should state the total number of participants, and could include a snapshot/table of demographics
8. Provide all checklists and questionnaires in appendices.
