The authors should improve the structure of the abstract. In this part, it is necessary indicates the method and conclusions sections.

The problem statement is not clear. SMEs that engage in corn activity do so as a livelihood (review this theoretical approach) . From this perspective, they must identify the factors that condition competitiveness. The other thing, if the authors' proposal is towards the creation of new ventures in this sector, why this motivation? What new opportunities are visualize?

The methodology is not clear. This should be worked on a plus.

Within the review of the literature, the justification of the hypothesis should be included. This cannot be exposed only in the results.

The conclusions especially must improve and derive directly from the research objective

The article is valuable because it exposes the reality of SME in Asia Pacific, an area in which more evidence is need.

To achieve this, work more in the problematization statement.
