

Review of: "Weathering changes – livelihood adaptation to weather shocks in rural India by disadvantaged social groups"

Paul Ogowang Tulibaleka

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is an important study. However, the author should clearly define the disadvantaged social groups and give justifications.

I also noted that there are few recent references especially from the year 2020. The author should work on this to make the study fitting into recent studies.