

Review of: "CPTED for a Safe Basti: A Case of Nardan Camp"

Tripti Soni

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The solutions are good but author has not threw light on the reasons behind increasing criminal activities. criminal activities increase when people suffer from poverty and financial crisis. if it is there then why immigration is taking place. if slums are so unhygienic then why the population of the basti is increasing. what are the current government initiatives to improve the condition of basti? and what major the power structures like politicians, police is taking to reduce crime? is there any politics behind it? what kind of people, from which place they are immigrating here? and what kind of social-cultural relationships they are making here? author has mentioned crime is there but by whom? those who are living in the same slum or by outsiders? what do the people of basti do for their livelihood and how do they get an exposure for criminal activities? people living in basti are marginalized. Are they not getting job as maid, servants, laborers, peons, drivers etc...if yes, it means the income is not good that is why they are indulged in criminal activities. For that author needs to understand capitalism. if no, they why they are still living in slums. I think the author should find out the existing culture of the slum people which affect their lives. The roots or the rason behind the emergence of criminal activities are not discussed here.