Review of: "Startup Project Development: Travel Schedule Management App “Triplanner”"

Sidharta Gautama

1 Ghent University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

As a research paper, the content of this paper is not suited. It describes a business analysis rather than academic research. As a business analysis, it is meant to explain value to an audience interested in this specific company. This can be valuable to e.g. investors. But to be academic research, you would want to investigate a more generic problem (eg travel planning in general) and have a sound methodology to analyse different options or methods in this domain and their impact. This is missing and not a research paper.