

Review of: "Assessment of soil erosion in the Cesar watershed, an initial step toward the restoration of the Cesar River"

Niloofar Nejatian<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> City University of New York

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The introduction's literature review needs major updates with recent and relevant research, which is essential for improvement.
  2. To enhance the paper's quality, provide more comprehensive details in the abstract.
  3. The figures in the paper need significant improvement in terms of quality.
  4. Consider a major revision by separating the results and discussion sections and providing a more detailed data analysis within the discussion.
  5. The conclusion lacks the depth expected. A substantial revision is necessary, incorporating more results for a stronger conclusion.
- Overall, the paper requires major revisions in multiple areas. Despite these challenges, good effort has been made in certain aspects of the paper.