

Review of: "An approach to the background, methods and challenges of research in disasters"

Mrinal Kanti Sen<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Assam Don Bosco University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Initially, The foundation of disaster categorization and coding appears deficient in academic rigor and precision. Could you elucidate the criteria employed for disaster classification? Was it rooted in the chronology of the disaster, its life cycle, or the distinct phases it undergoes? This clarification should be introduced with greater explicitness.

Finally, the article's title lacks clarity and accuracy. The assertion presented as "A method for addressing the context..." does not align with scholarly standards. Kindly provide an alternative phrasing.