

Review of: "Online learning during the COVID-19 pandemic, lessons learned and what's next?"

Shee Mun Yong¹

¹ KDU College Sdn Bhd

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

There is no clear indication of the methodology used in undertaking the research. It is important in research to understand the technique used in selecting, collecting, analyzing, and interpreting information about a phenomenon to ascertain the validity, and reliability of the study.

Most countries have already removed travel restrictions, and fully reopened their borders. Unless your paper is addressing future pandemic of global scale or distance learning, there is little value in discussing merits of best practices in online learning during pandemic.