This paper analyzed the impacts of multiple environmental factors on public and private health expenditures. This topic is meaningful and practical. However, there are some issues that need to get improved as follows.

1. It is recommended to use the usual structure, such that abstract, introduction, literature review, methodology, results, and conclusion. As for now, the structure of this paper is unclear. And the authors have combined the introduction with the literature review, which unable to clearly identify article contributions.
2. It is recommended to list all the major contributions of this study in the last paragraph of the literature review section.
3. The concepts of green and low-carbon are mixed and confused through the text. It is suggested to make a clear distinction between these two concepts.
