Review of: "Farm to Fork's Discourse on Resources and Population"

The selected topic is very interesting, and the research is thoroughly worked. Yet, I have some recommendations for the authors that should help improve this paper.

First, even if the F2F strategy is getting outdated, its importance still stands out for the EU community; therefore, a critical discourse analysis is welcomed. In this case, I believe that enhancing the argument for this type of analysis is in order.

Second, since it is a qualitative analysis, some research questions should be stated and answered throughout the paper. In this form, the paper resembles more a story than a research paper.

The paper should be more strongly correlated to other research papers in the same area.
