It is a descriptive study highlighting and comparing the COVID-19 symptoms. In my opinion, this paper needs to be improved by introducing a statistical model to compare if the similarities and differences are significant or not.

I would advise to improve the English language.

A section 'Conclusion' is highly recommended to be added at the end. Discussion only addressed the findings in the results.

There are thousands of studies which are conducted on COVID-19. Thus it is recommended that the authors add many more recent similar studies and compare them with their study.

Appendix also needs to be in the paper as it has been mentioned in the body.
