Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Would have liked maybe a few more details about what information about possible side effects and trial findings was actually available. Maybe also delving deeper into the state of panic and how the spread of misinformation contributed to general mistrust in governmental institutions, which in turn lead to resistance against vaccination campaigns.

Overall though,

The paper is well formulated and well thought out.

Very interesting read. Brings the ideas of the authors to light in a very pleasant way.

Keep up the good work.
