

Review of: "The Loneliness Epidemic: Exploring Its Impact on Mental Health and Social Well-Being in Modern Society"

Afzal Javed

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This article is well-written and talks about an important issue that requires attention and significant consideration by health professionals. This topic is receiving more attention, especially after COVID-19, which has an impact on mental well-being and functioning. Loneliness is emerging as a new social phenomenon that would need due recognition by the professionals dealing with vulnerable populations.