The research deals with a very interesting current at the moment topic. The parameters used to categorize the review seem to be accurate: TikTok and Academic Performance, TikTok and Mental Health, TikTok and Social Interactions, TikTok and Well-being.

However, I think it needs to be improved in the following two points:

Firstly, it falls short of being exactly a literature review, but it is rather a summary of a few pieces of research. Secondly, it is not explained the methodology used in the research. From my point of view, it should be necessary to find much more piece of research, to analyze, structure and make connections between all of them.

Therefore, this is a superficial study that does not meet the requirements of the structure of a literature review and I strongly recommended the inclusion of a clear research question, inclusion criteria and search strategy.

Courage, you can do it!
