Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The topic is relevant, and the title is appropriate.
2. The abstract is clear and consistent with the main text. However, the objective of the research should be stated within the abstract.
3. The introduction is well-written. The purpose, research hypothesis, and rationale are well-stated.
4. Abbreviations should be mentioned the first time they appear in the text.
5. The methods section is well-written. However, in the statistical analysis section, you should mention the conduction of analysis of between-subjects effects and interactive effects and the analysis of simple effects.
6. The results are clearly displayed.
7. The references should be corrected to adopt a standardized format.

I hope you find the comments and suggestions important to develop your paper for publication.
