

Review of: "Acacia pycnantha gum exudates recognised as a traditional food in two countries may have economic potential"

José Rodolfo Goche-Telles<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidad Juárez del Estado de Durango

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is interesting. I suggest some improvements in the following:

1. The results are incomplete. There is a lack of chemical characterization of the rubber to support the benefits attributed.
2. The discussion is poor; no other works appear on the sales value and whether it is competitive with other tires.
3. There is no recommendation regarding the establishment of plantations of the species under study.