1. In the abstract, the author needs to write down the emphasis on the urgency of this research.
2. The introductory section is still too long, you need to summarize the introductory straight to the point. You can write down various previous studies that can emphasize the novelty of your research. Also you need to answer the question, "what is the novelty of your research?"
3. The research method does not clearly describe the research design used. How do you measure the oil palm expansion variable? How do you measure subnational food security variables? Why are you using the logit model? why not use the probit model? In addition, you must clearly explain the type of data used, is it primary data or secondary data? If primary, where is the research location? how much is the sample? etc. If secondary, how many years of data are used? at what level of data is used? etc.
4. The results and discussion have not led to the research objectives
5. Conclusions and recommendations need to be reworked
6. The references used are not up to date
