

Review of: "Antimicrobial Ayurveda Crops as Superfoods for Export, Conservation & Farmers' Benefit"

Jasper Ewany

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is relevant and promising, but the article lacks important elements for a scientific paper.

1. The quality of the writing should be improved.
2. The paper generally needs more details in almost all sections. For example, the methodology details are scanty and have minimal information on how the assessment of the antioxidant potential and health benefits of the herbs was conducted.
3. The discussion only focused on the various superfoods available without linking to how the foods can ameliorate the challenge of antibiotic resistance in general.