

Review of: "Biological Parenthood and Reproductive Technologies"

Nicola Zampieri¹

¹ Azienda Ospedaliera Universitaria Integrata Verona

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

this is an interesting view but it is not a scientific paper among reproductive technologies . this specific group of patients have the same possibility as other couples, the difference is among ethical considerations or political considerations that usually are not scientific fields. you can write the paper following the possibility of ART among this specific group of patients and describe the ethical , if present, international approach.