

Review of: "Examining the Impact of Green Finance on Carbon Emissions in India through Energy Consumption Optimization"

Nazif Ayyıldız<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Harran University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Your article holds the potential to fill a gap in the literature, but it doesn't seem to have fully achieved the status of an empirical study yet. There needs to be a more coherent flow between the article's titles and its content, establishing a general academic article structure is essential.

The process of conducting the research, the dataset used, and the methodologies employed need to be clearly stated and introduced. Adding a section for the dataset and methodologies could address this deficiency.

It's crucial to comprehensively review the literature and summarize studies of a similar nature. This review will demonstrate the extent to which you have synthesized existing knowledge.

The findings need to be presented clearly, emphasizing their alignment with the objectives of the article. Additionally, discussing these findings in comparison to similar studies in the literature would be beneficial.