Dear authors,

Thank you very much for this research article.

Congratulations on the article. I conduct similar research and have a similar professional profile, which is why I appreciate your work even more; it provides further evidence of the benefits of dance for adults.

The introduction and literature review are satisfactory. I would suggest expanding the review to include more recent articles.

The article was written in a clear way. The assumptions and method of conducting the study - I have no objections.

This research was given ethical approval (application P146244) by the College of Engineering.

Findings indicated that involvement in dance led to a strong sense of social connectedness to individuals and the wider community. Dance cultivated feelings of belonging within the local community that reached far beyond the dance floor.

Good luck with your future research.
