

Review of: "Factors Influencing the Laptop Buying Behavior of Students in Vietnam"

Andi Supiyandi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

My suggestion is to add further information regarding the sampling technique used, apart from that there are various types of random sampling, please clarify in that section. The sampling technique really determines whether the data used can represent the population or only represent the sample used.

This is very important considering that the title used in this study represents all students in Vietnam.