The manuscript is well written and the findings of the research add value to the context of Environment education for Sustainability. The Author is encouraged to consider including more recent studies (2020 -2023) and also recommending a more specific solution for including environmental education in higher learning. Should it be as a mandatory foundational course, a small component in all courses, or a training part of orientation for new students? Also consider making mention of some of the recent COP Climate forum deliberations regarding waste segregation as initiatives of reducing carbon footprint and their applicability in the local context.
