Dear authors,

Thank you for the opportunity to review your work.

The study conducted appears relevant and interesting. However, the article submitted appears very packed and lacking coherence by wanting to cover too many topics.

The introduction presents many concepts but overall lacks the conceptual clarity needed. The methods section lacks important methodological and ethical sections/information. The discussion would deserve further exploration.

Attached is a commented version with comments along. It is not uncommon to publish different analyses from the same study. It may be worth considering two qualitative papers (one on knowledge/education and one on consent and 1st sexual experiences), with more conceptual clarity and in-depth analysis.

I am happy to answer any questions you may have.
