The implementation of disciplinary procedures in schools is a crucial issue that impacts various aspects of the subjects involved. This article provides an overview of the issue, however for a more detailed, comprehensive, and systematic approach, the following considerations should be taken into account by the author:

- In the data analysis section, it is necessary to present details regarding the type of qualitative design, research subjects, methods for subject selection, the instruments used, data collection techniques, data analysis procedures, and data validity
- The intended thematic analysis is not yet clear, and the categorization of themes from the findings needs to be elaborated
- It would be more engaging and easier to understand if the findings were presented in the form of a matrix or a scheme derived from the analysis of emerging themes
- The conclusions and recommendations should be formulated in concise and practical sentences that are to the point.
