Thank you very much for submitting your work with the title " Technological Advancement and Changing Skills: Imperative for a Paradigm Shift in Education Delivery in Zambia"

It is certainly an interesting topic that may be of interest to others in other parts of the world. It is necessary to value the effort of the researchers in carrying out the research.

However, I believe that some changes could be made in order to better disseminate the work:

1. The author should include a thorough literature study.
2. The author should include relevant applications, limitations, and potential future applications.
3. The paper's language requires meticulous proofreading.
