

Review of: "Climate Change and Sustainability: A Comparative Case Study"

David Alberto García-Arango<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Corporación Universitaria Americana

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article presents an interesting approach in comparative studies of climate change and sustainability between countries. It is suggested to include greater quantitative depth taking into account that there are significant differences between both countries that must be considered when making a comparison of this type.