This paper examines sustainable survival Tactics for Small-Scale Bakeries through a case study. I think that the manuscript lacks the necessary elements for scientific work. We suggest addressing some issues :

- The paper lacks significant elements regarding the research method and the case study. Please review these elements and include them in the abstract. Also, the abstract doesn't give information about the findings obtained.
- The scientific value added isn't clear in the paper (abstract, introduction, and conclusion).
- The literature review does not sufficiently justify its bibliographic references. The text cites information related to experts from various countries and international organizations without providing precise bibliographic references (author, year).
- The methodology section is not clearly and sufficiently explained, which means that it's not enough to cite the information sources. You need to go further and define the global method and its purpose, then specify the indicators to measure before moving on to explanations with formulas.
- The language deserves revision for clarity and coherence.
- It's also crucial to provide clear explanations for any abbreviations used, such as CBN, SSI...

Good luck !
